

2020 US Presidential Election Conspiracy

trending

fashion

pattern

textile

Iranian hackers charged with cybercrimes in connection with attempts to influence 2020 US Presidential Election

Sent

Seyyed Mohammad Hosei (24) and Sajjad Kashian (27) are computer hackers who worked for an Iran-based company known as Emennet Pasargad.

Seen

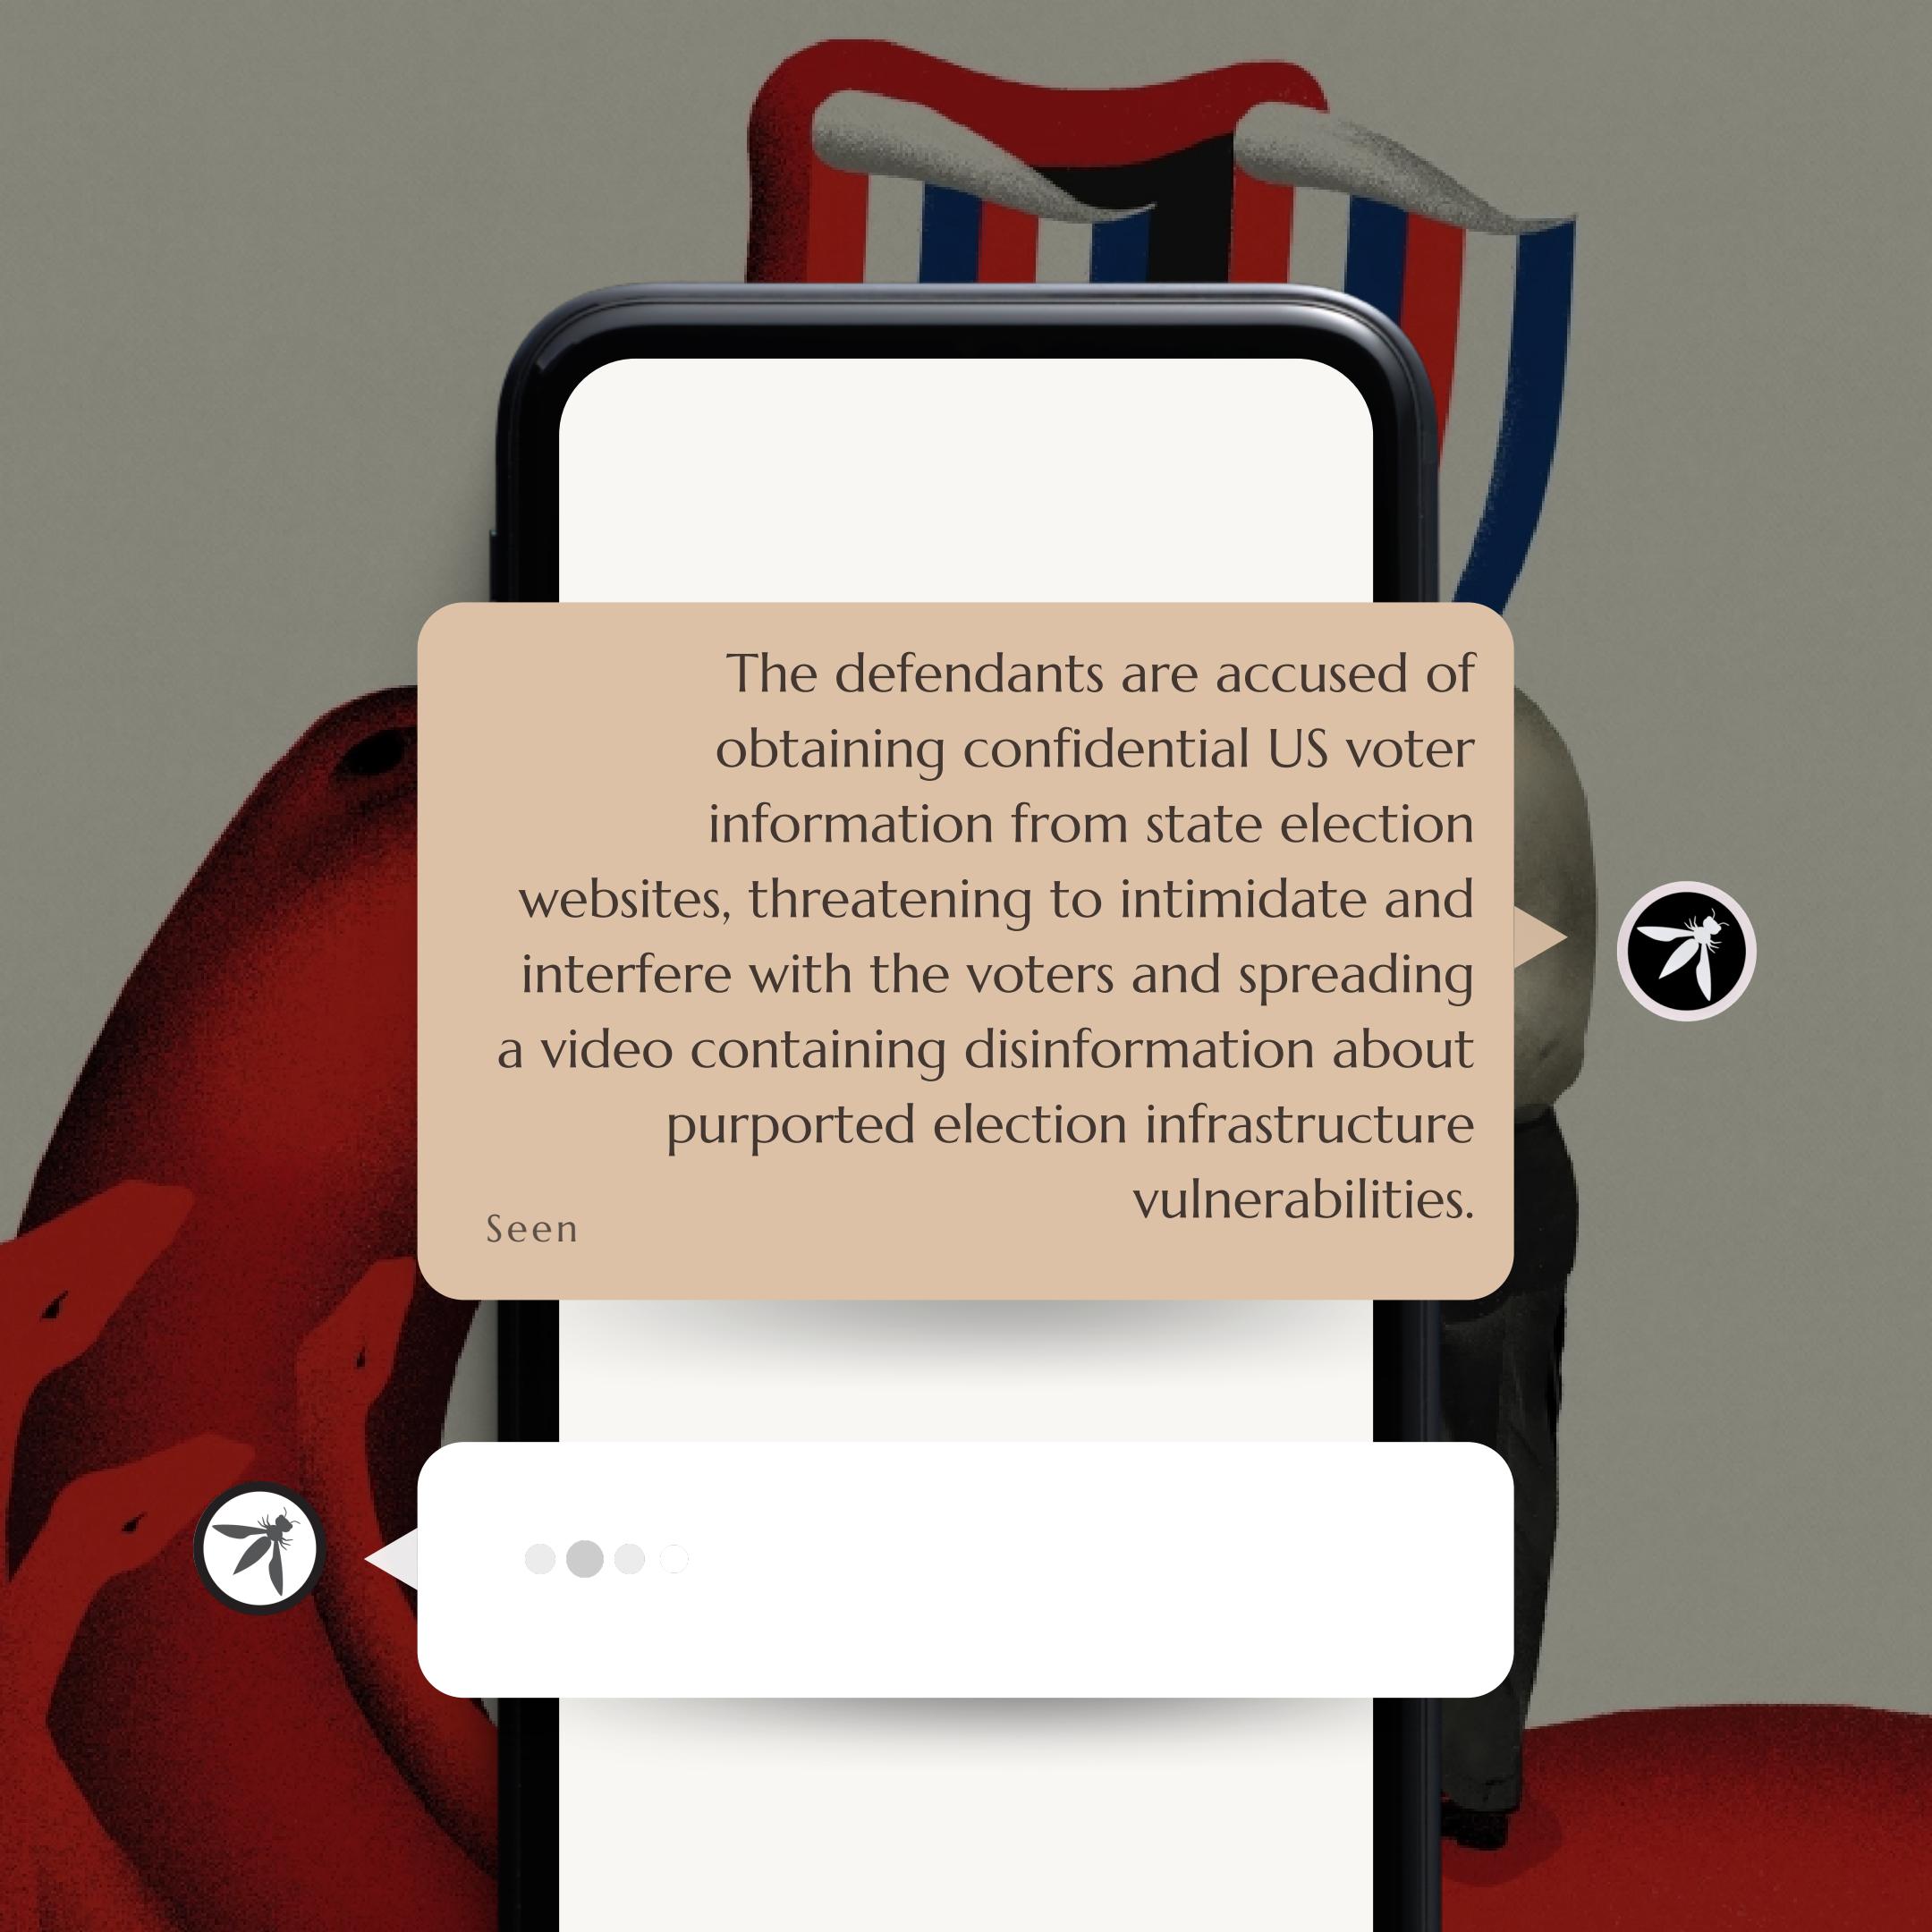

A statement released by the US DoJ on November 18 stated that these men were charged for their involvement in “a cyber-enabled campaign to intimidate and influence American voters, and otherwise undermine voter confidence and sow discord”.
Sent

• • •

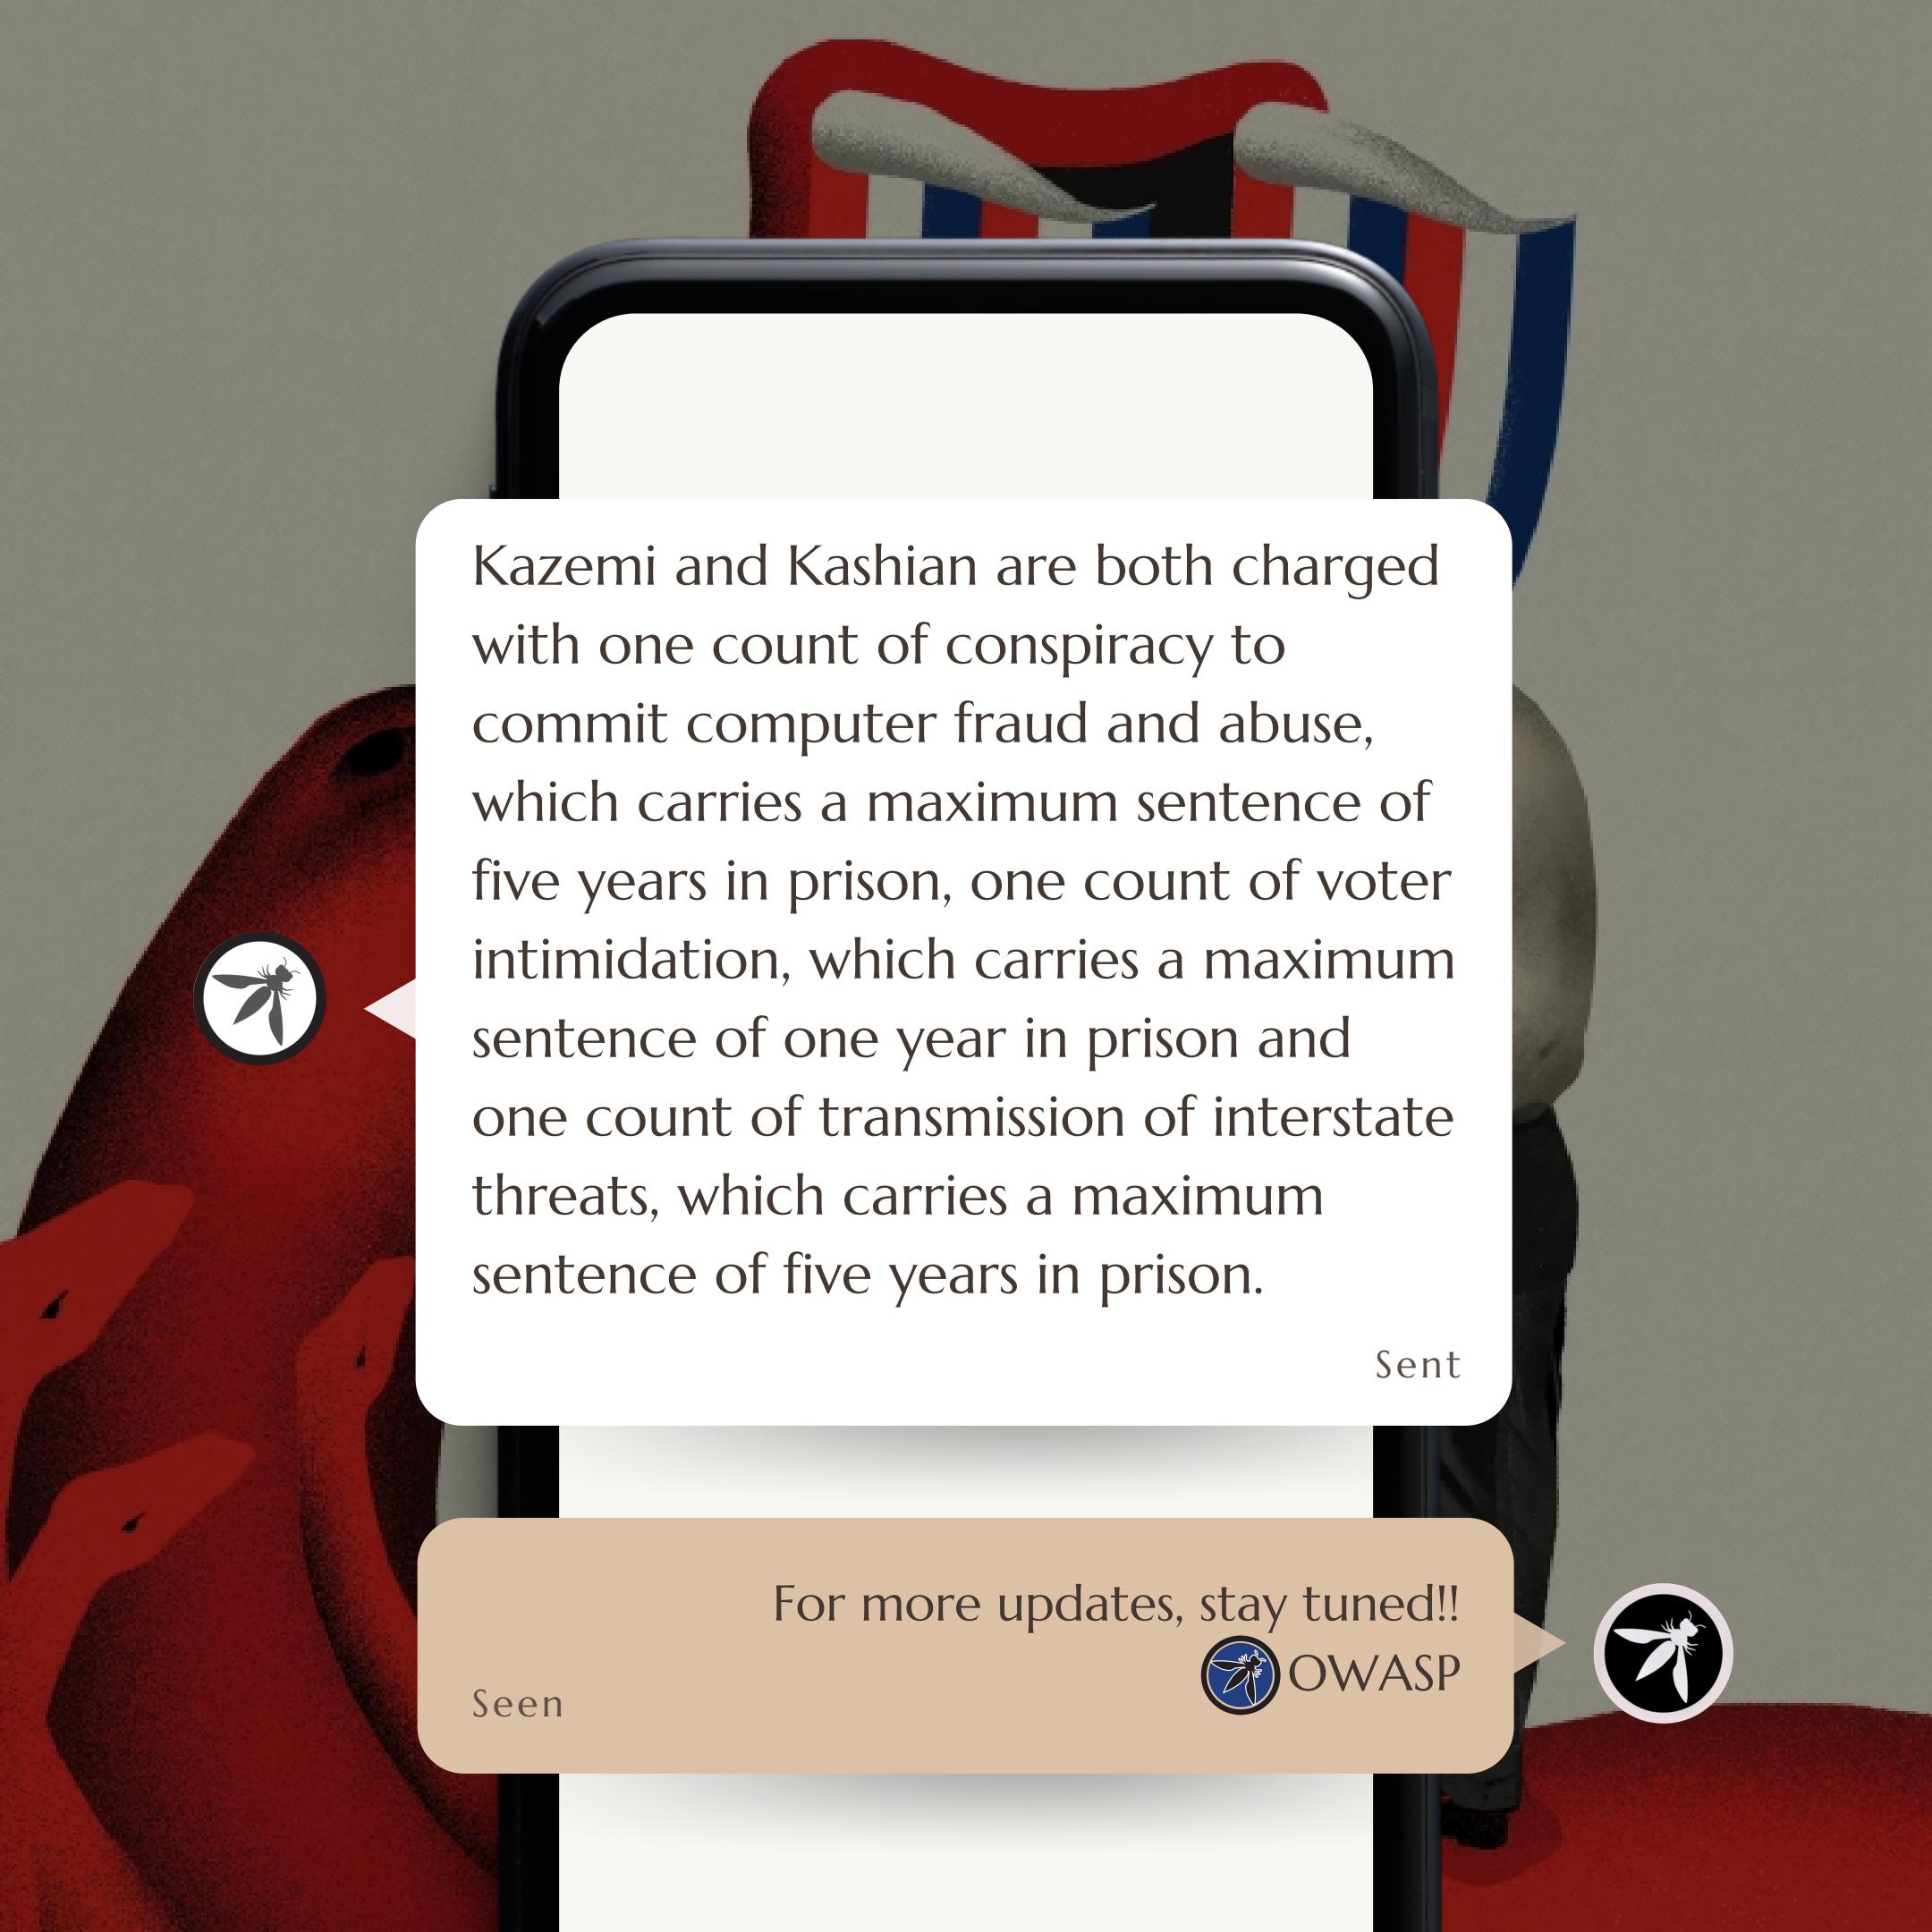

The defendants are accused of obtaining confidential US voter information from state election websites, threatening to intimidate and interfere with the voters and spreading a video containing disinformation about purported election infrastructure vulnerabilities.

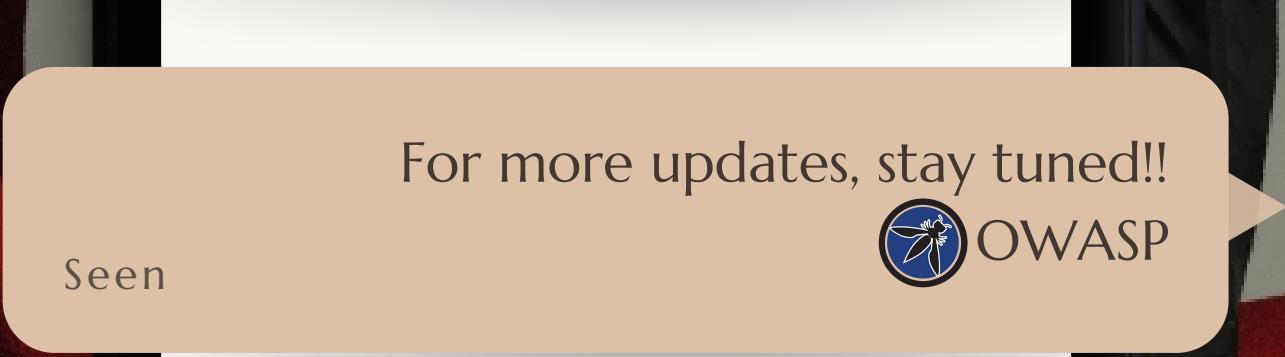

Seen

Kazemi and Kashian are both charged with one count of conspiracy to commit computer fraud and abuse, which carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison, one count of voter intimidation, which carries a maximum sentence of one year in prison and one count of transmission of interstate threats, which carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

Sent

Seen

For more updates, stay tuned!!

